THE MINISTER BAR

The Rev. George K. MacDonald, Former Pastor of Long Island City Church, Tends His Own Bar.

TOLERATES NO PROFANITY.

Talks of Theology While He Serves Drinks, Says He Favors Free Lunches and Likes to See Men Drink Beer.

Behind the bar of the Jefferson Cafe at One Hundred and Forty-eighth street and Bergen avenue, in the Bronx, stands a stout, pleasant-faced young man whose white duck coat and spotless linen apron have only lately succeeded the sombre garb of a minister of the gospel.

The minister-barkeeper is the Rev. George K. MacDonald, until two weeks ago pastor of the East Avenue Baptist Church, Long Island City. It was he who preached a farewell sermon answering the charges of his congregation that he was addicted to the use of liquor by the statement that it was in their own homes that he had first learned to use it.

"I am not at all ashamed to be found in my new vocation," he said to-day, "and I am glad of the opportunity to set myself right before the public. If there is one person I despise more than another it is a hypocrite."

While Rev. Mr. MacDonald talked he tended bar and showed that he had learned how to draw beer from the spigot and mix cocktails.

"I never turned a spigot in my life until a week ago," he said, laughingly, "but I am picking up, and my bartenders are introducing me to the mysteries of mixed decoctions. My father was a sea captain and a Scotchman, and I have been used to spirits all my life and I have not been a hypocrite about it."

Views Are Broadened.

"I am not aware," he went on, "that I have changed my views materially on Christian ethics, Christian conduct, or Christian theology. I have come to realize that some of my former views were too narrow and that I have broadened as I have grown older. Nothing has ever given me more satisfaction than to come into contact with the masses of men as I have met them since I came here. I have always been in hearty sympathy with the masses, the average men, as one meets them in the everyday life of the world. And, according to my observation, the church has signally failed to reach them."

"I am well aware that the business of the saloon-keeper is looked down upon, despised by the average of the church-going community, but I cannot share that feeling. Saloons, like theatres, may be good or bad. I have never seen anything, perhaps, in all my life has given me more satisfaction than to serve a warm lunch to a lot of workmen at the noon hour or a cheap hot dinner later at the price of a glass of beer-five cents. I can see no harm in his taking the glass of beer."

Free Lunch a Drag.

"It contains 96 per cent. of water and only 4 per cent. of alcoholic stimulant. I make it a rule to serve a good lunch, with fish chowder, clam broth or something else hot and nutritious from 11 until 2 o'clock. I don't mind it. I who are already drinking here in droves, and from 5 to 12 o'clock at night they usually find a warm lunch."

"I have no intention of combining scriptural prohibition with the service of a saloon, but this you may depend upon—I do not intend to tolerate blasphemy, profanity, or anything of the kind in this saloon. I intend to run a decent place, and I want no other class of custom."

"How do you expect to stop that kind of talk?" was asked the saloon-keeper. "I don't anticipate any serious trouble. Another thing I won't do is to serve liquor to a man who has already enough or too much. Both my bartenders have strict orders never to serve an intoxicated person, and I am personally in charge of the bar from 9:30 o'clock in the morning until 12 o'clock at night. But suppose blackguards come in and 'use to be good, what will you do to stop them?"

"Oh, well, I had one little experience last night, for illustration. A big teamster, who comes occasionally, was intoxicated and I refused to serve him with whiskey. He tried to get into the bar and he started to curse and call me foul names. I came out from behind the bar and said quietly: 'Gus, you mustn't do that here. You won't have that kind of talk. I don't go in to him while I run it.'"

"Well, he said, 'I am a man, and I would have whiskey and become more abusive and foul than ever. So I just went over to where he was and I grabbed him by the collar and put a bit of a twist on it, and he came up standing easily enough. Then I led him to the side door, and as he lived near by, I took him out and, as he lives near by, I just let him go. He was as mild as a kitten when I let him go. Now, I've an idea he won't be offensive that way again.'"

Mr. MacDonald admitted he stood all right with the police, but said he would observe the Police Code, not because he thought it a good law, but he lives in Long Island City and he wants to close up as early as possible. He said he had a seven-year lease on his saloon and was now serving 1,500 customers a day, with his trade growing.

"How do I get business away from other saloon-keepers?" he repeated. "By selling better whiskey for 10 cents, by giving larger 'pints' of beer for five cents and by setting out a good, honest lunch."

WANAMAKER NOT TO MOVE.

His Partner Disposes of Gossip and Announces a New Building.

The block bounded by Broadway, Fourth avenue, Eighth and Ninth streets, which John Wanamaker has been gradually acquiring for several years, is to be the site of a ten or twelve story building, which will be occupied by his store.

With the exception of one or two small parcels held by lessees, Mr. Wanamaker is said by his partner, Robert C. Ogden, to have complete control of the property. How long whatever speculation will be begun is not definitely known.

Heretofore it has been said that Wanamaker would most likely move his big establishment above Twenty-third street on account of the trend of the fashion houses of its kind toward that neighborhood. The information given out by Mr. Ogden shows that whatever speculation there has been in this respect.

NON-UNION MINERS TELL OF BOYCOTT.

Boy Says He Was Forced Out of Fire Department Because He Worked During Strike.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 20.—The Anthracite Coal Strike Commission held its last session of the year to-day on Tuesday, Jan. 5.

John H. Otto, the first witness called, said all the merchants in Archbald, Pa., were compelled to boycott him because he worked in the mines.

The second witness was a boy who was forced to leave the store he was employed in on account of his father being a non-union man, and the next witness testified that strikers tried to have him forced out of the volunteer fire company to which he belonged because he continued to work as a mine engineer during the strike.

Mrs. Rhoda Snyder, of Wilkesbarre, with a baby in her arms, took the stand and, with tears running down her face, told of the burning of her home by strikers. Her husband was in the mines and could not come home because he feared being harmed. She and her children were driven out of their home and she was forced to seek refuge with her mother-in-law. The same night the house and all its contents were destroyed by fire. Her goods were not insured. Her father-in-law and mother-in-law corroborated her testimony.

COAL GOES TO POOR, BUT HOW?

President Swanstrom Calls a Meeting of Dealers in Brooklyn and Says "Let's Do Something at Once."

"YES, LET'S," YAWNS ONE.

A Pickwickian meeting of coal dealers in Brooklyn, called by Borough President Swanstrom for the purpose of devising a better means for distributing coal among the poor, was held to-day at Borough Hall.

There were twenty dealers present. Most of them acted as though they would rather be anywhere else. They did not seem to have any enthusiasm. They sort of smoldered with indifference. They talked in a desultory way and kept looking at their watches as though time were money.

One man said there was plenty of coal, but inadequate facilities for delivery. Another insisted that the purpose of the meeting was to get the coal to the poor, but he was not sure how to do it. A majority voted there was not plenty of coal. Little groups put their heads together and discussed profits. Others talked about the weather. But nobody said anything about the poor.

"Let's speed it up," said one of the dealers. "All right," agreed the conference. The committee was named without a moment's delay. The committee does not know what it is expected to do. Nobody knows.

JOCKEY HICKS WAS BRIBED.

Confesses that $500 Was to Be His Reward for Having Moabina Beaten.

THE WINNERS.

FIRST RACE—Little Jack Horner 1, Grantor 2, Bedlam 3. SECOND RACE—Harry Wilson 1, Optimo 2, Eliza Dillon 3. THIRD RACE—Farmer Jim 1, Welcome Light 2, Pirate 3. FOURTH RACE—Moor 1, The Lady 2, Jessie Jarboe 3.

(Special to The Evening World.) NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 20.—J. L. Pligue, who has a contract on Jockey Wallace Hicks, is authority for the statement that Hicks has made a full confession to the racing stewards. Hicks, who was riding for Tommy Burns, has been signed to ride the horse for the next two weeks. Durnell & Herz scratched McChesney from both races because they were unable to get a first-class boy to ride the crack colt, as Redfern failed to arrive. McChesney's owners requested permission to let him ride for anybody but Ed Corrigan and Pat Dunne, his regular employers.

FIRST RACE. Six furlongs. Starters, white, jocks, St. Hall, Pin. St. Place. Little Jack Horner, 109. Grantor, 114. O'Neill, 9. 6 1/2 2 1/2 8 5-5. Eliza Dillon, 101. Heiger, 106. ### Farmer Jim was much the best.

Farmer Jim was much the best. Welcome Light suffered from poor handling. Barkmore should have beaten Pirate for third place.

COMPLAIN OF CAR ABUSES.

Citizens Protest to Board of Railroad Commissioners at Albany Over Inadequate Service Here and in Brooklyn.

CALLS SYSTEM NIGGARDLY.

President of Board of Health Here Talks on the Inadequate Overcrowding in Cars and Other Evils Prevalent.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 20.—Complaints relative to the inadequacy of street-car service in New York City continue to be received by the State Board of Railroad Commissioners. The complaints of various residents of Brooklyn against the Brooklyn Rapid Transit system and that of F. H. Weeks relative to the Third Avenue elevated service in Manhattan were supplemented to-day by a complaint from William Berg, No. 260 Eighth avenue, relative to train service, especially after midnight, on the Ninth Avenue road.

He complains that for the past six months when the train reaches the Fifty-ninth street station after midnight the passengers are compelled to get out and wait for the next Sixth Avenue train. He says that this in itself is a nuisance, but it becomes unbearable when the company, through a spirit of niggardly economy, runs but two cars to a train on the Ninth Avenue line.

"If there was any way to get after the car companies through the Board of Health," said Dr. Lederle, its President, to The Evening World to-day, "I would have done it long ago, but I fear that the public will have to look elsewhere for a remedy. I am not empowered to interfere as a public official, but I am willing to lend my support to any movement that may be launched."

"While there is no doubt that the incessant and intolerable crowding of our public conveyances spreads contagion and brings on disease, it is extremely difficult to show it. I have no doubt that in the past few weeks the foundation of disease has been laid in many a system solely as a result of riding in the crowded 'L' and surface cars. But we cannot prove it. Few persons can trace ailments with which they may become afflicted to their source."

"I observe that the Manhattan people are using the third rail system as an excuse for crowded conditions. This is no excuse. I am told by citizens of Boston and Chicago that the third rail of the 'T' system in those cities causes no trouble. In both cities they have storms more severe than those which visit New York. It is time for the proper authorities to get to the bottom of the question of inadequate accommodations for the public furnished by our transportation companies."

Big Damages for Wreck Victim. BROCKTON, Mass., Dec. 20.—Frank J. Cashin, of Springfield, was awarded $37,000 in the Superior Court for injuries received in the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad wreck at Avon in September, 1931.

$5 Straight Has Won $561.

The above record speaks for itself. Day after day I receive letters of congratulation from numerous patrons throughout the country. Why are you not one of them? I will start you for $5 and you will find me a profitable institution if the above is not a correct copy of my selections.

A Good Investment.

Should you be unable to play yourself and wish to take advantage of my good things, make the following offer: Send me an account of $25 or $50 and I will have same put on my good ones each day, mailing you a copy of my information each day of race information. I guarantee you nothing for my information, but simply desire to start your selection. I will pay you a settlement weekly and retaining your original capital for reinvestment the following week. Send me your account once as I have numerous good things in store.

For Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

For Monday I have information that will command a big profit on a small investment. For Tuesday something exceptionally choice, and for Wednesday two tricks that will start you with odds. Now above record will show that I am in the habit of making big profits. I have decided to make my headquarters at Washington, D. C., for six days a day. My terms for information are as follows: $5 receipt of order at 9 A. M. daily. Remittances can be made by registered letter, P. O. money order, express order or certified check. Address

350% PROFIT IN 3 DAYS.

Our Conservative One Horse Per Day Wire a Fair Winner at New Orleans.

OUR ONE HORSE DAILY PLAY:
WEDNESDAY: SCOTCH PLAID . 7 TO 5, WON
THURSDAY: COM. FORSTER . . 8 TO 5, WON
YESTERDAY: SWEET ALICE . . 1 TO 2, WON

Given good weather and a fair track at New Orleans and we can't lose a bet for you. Even when the track is bad the worst we can get for you is an even break.

Our despatches indicate good weather and a good track indefinitely from now on, and our famous corps of track experts announce that never in the history of the Maxim & Gay Co. have they had up their sleeves such a bunch of good things as they will spring for the benefit of our clients in the next ten days. You can't afford to miss us from now on. We are clearly in our stride. If you are wise you will cut in and get some of the picking at once.

Below we print the complete list of winners and losers played by us for our enormous clientele since the opening of the New Orleans meeting. The record shows only 56 per cent. winners, which is about 11 per cent. less than our average of last year for New Orleans. The fact that we have only given 56 per cent. winners to date makes it almost a sure thing that our percentage for the next two weeks will jump to 75.

Our experts being the same as those who checked the horses for us at New Orleans last winter, the law of averages may reasonably be expected to even things. As everybody knows, the track conditions for the first three weeks have been miserable. Only during the last few days has the Track Superintendent been able to get the course into good shape. This, taken in conjunction with the fact that the rainy season is now over in the South, makes victory look absolutely certain from now till the end of the meeting.

COMPLETE RECORD OF THE MEETING.

The one-horse daily plays made with the commissions of our hundreds of clients on the New Orleans meeting, which began Thanksgiving Day, are as follows:

THURSDAY	COM. FORSTER	8 to 5, WON
FRIDAY	SWEET ALICE	1 to 2, WON

OUR NEW ORLEANS PROPOSITION.

Again we call your careful attention to our New Orleans proposition. The business already done under difficult circumstances shows the ability of our wire to win in following our play. With track conditions more favorable to our prognostications, we will increase the incomes of our investors fourfold.

COMPLETE RECORD MADE BY OUR ONE-HORSE PER-DAY WIRE AT NEW ORLEANS LAST SEASON:

Here follows a complete record of the selections given in our One-Horse Wire at New Orleans last season. Every loser is accounted for, as well as every winner, and a showing is made of the result of a Twenty Daily daily play. Look it over.
